

Bernard Arghiere has been observing and studying the celestial skies for over 50 years. He has traveled worldwide chasing astronomical events, and he has viewed 4 total solar eclipses, 2 Venus transits and 2 Mercury transits.

Mr. Arghiere has served as an astronomy instructor and lecturer for people of all ages, and he has led the design and construction of 3 observatories in the Western North Carolina region.

He is the past president of the Astronomy Club of Asheville and the recipient of the 2010 North Carolina Champion of Science award from the NC Science, Mathematics, and Technology Education Center. He is a longtime resident of Asheville, NC.