

Dr. Ralph Gaume is a semi-retired astronomer and a (relatively) new member of the Astronomy Club of Asheville, having moved to the Asheville area in July 2023. During his professional career, Dr. Gaume held positions at the National Science Foundation, The Naval Observatory, The Naval Research Laboratory, and the University of Michigan. Dr. Gaume retired from full-time employment in 2021, but he continues to work part-time for the National Science Foundation as a consultant on special projects.
