

Maggie Connelly is the Planetarium Specialist at Roper Mountain Science Center in Greenville, SC, where she oversees the Hooper Planetarium and Charles E. Daniel Observatory.

She is responsible for creating and facilitating astronomy-based programs for both the public and school groups. Maggie has over 10 years of experience teaching informal science which includes extensive experience presenting to all age groups. She is a lifelong learner and wants to share her passion with others!

